Notre Dame presents

"THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE"

through the pages of . . .

Notre Dame Catholic Girls' High School

Moylan, Pennsylvania

The 1956 Maryscript

Fall, Winter, Spring . . .

A scene we behold only in our dreams! The ground isn't the only thing that is blanketed when we hear the magic words, "No school, today!" over the radio.

Margaret Redmond, Mary Corr and Mary Lou Gibson lead our annual May Procession around our beautiful spring campus. The Glee Club singing hymns to Our Lady follows the flag bearers.

Our Stage Settings are Nature's Loveliest

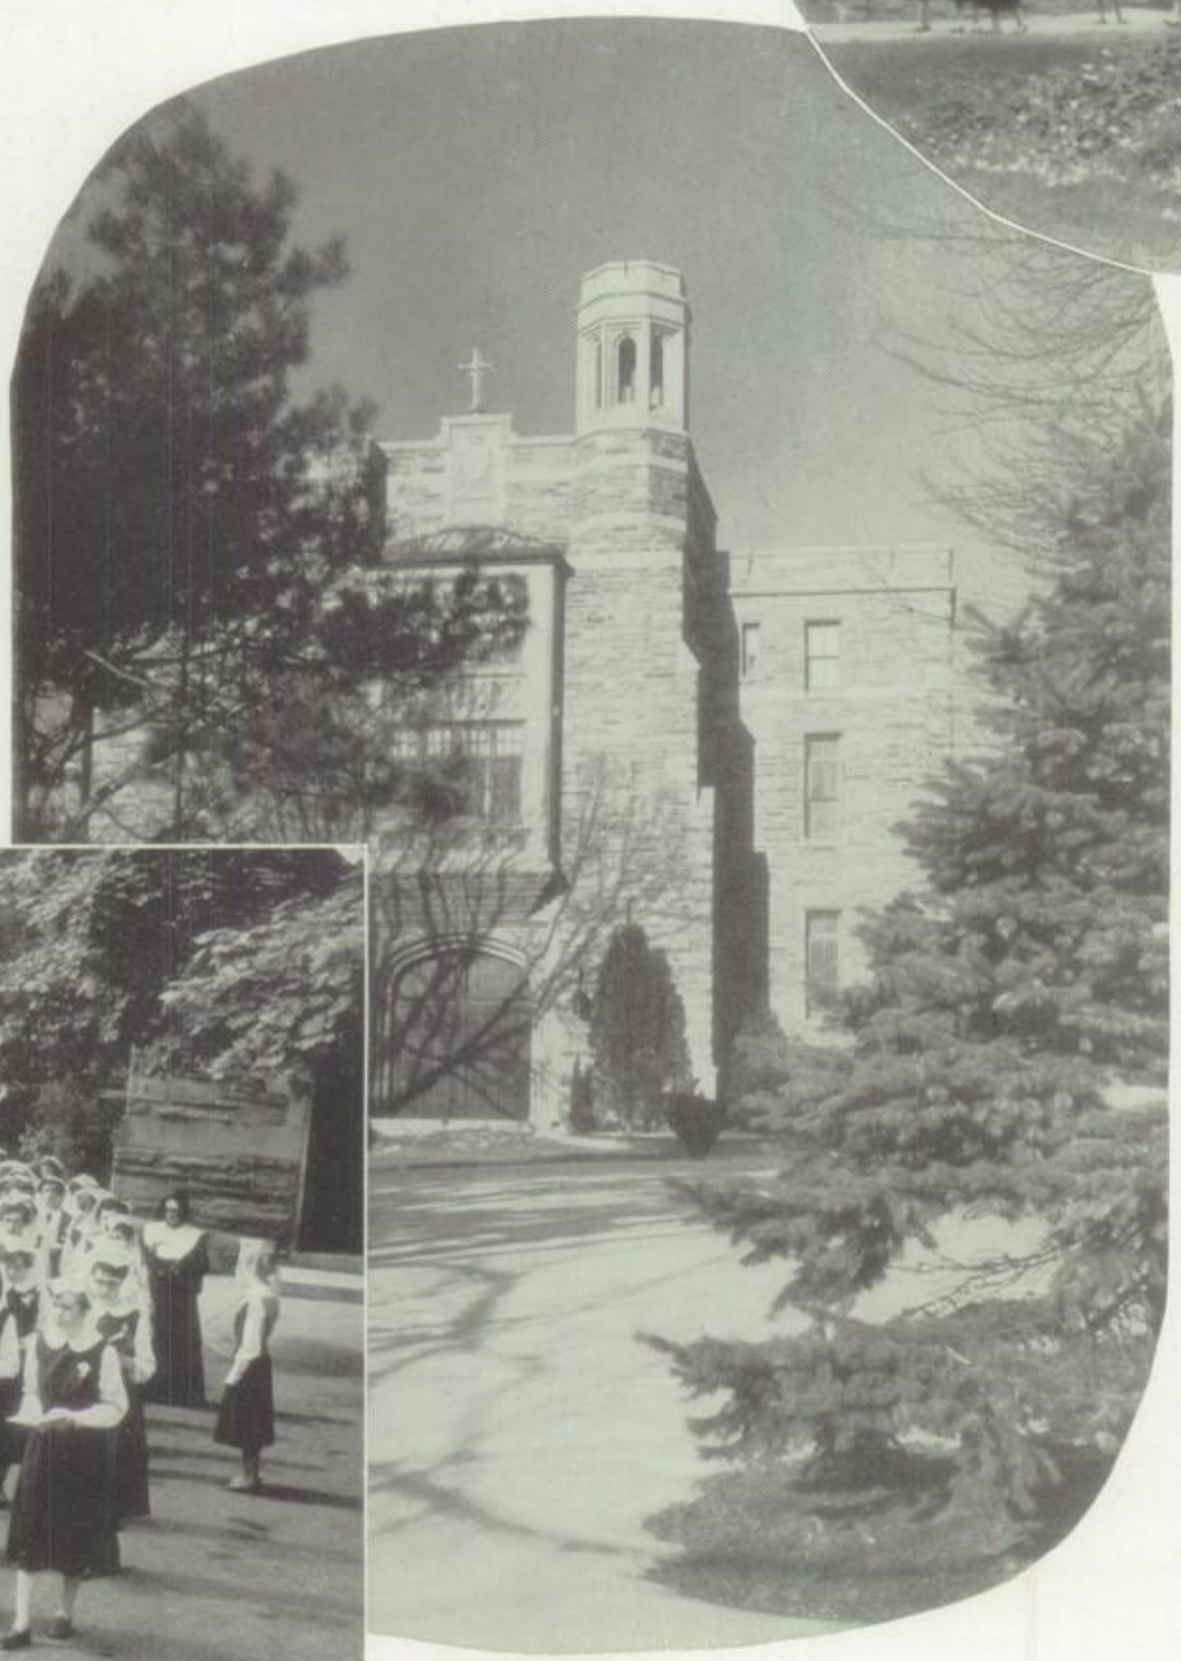
Below: Here is the view of the Turret that greets our sleepy eyes at 9:00 each morning.



Situated in the midst of Moylan-Rose Valley in Delaware County are the thirteen acres of magnificent campus which surround Notre Dame Catholic Girls' High School. A thirty-minute train ride from Philadelphia will bring you to the collegiate building of Gothic architecture and Foxcroft stone walls. Beautiful old trees, broad lawns that slope down to the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes on the south and to the athletic field on the north, draw many admirers to the school's grounds.

Fourteen hundred and eighty-five girls coming from 45 parishes by means of 23 school-bus routes, buses, trolleys, and trains arrive for classes held under the guidance of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur. During the nine periods of the school day, each girl, whether in the Commercial, Academic, Science, Art or Home-Economics course, is learning something to aid her in her role as a model young Catholic woman. From the Grand Court the statue of Our Lady, Queen of Heaven, watches over the students who pray to their patroness in the words of their school motto: "Mary, be the light of our way!"

Our Role in the Great Drama

THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE

The curtain is rising! After many a long rehearsal the seniors are about to step out upon the stage of womanhood to take their role in "The American Way of Life."

The opening day has come. This lavish production which has been four years in the making will feature many settings — the business office, the college campus, the home, the hospital, the laboratory, the classroom.

As we wait for our entrance cue, we remember with gratitude the untiring zeal and self-sacrifice of the Producers and Directors of our rehearsals — our Diocesan Superintendents who planned so carefully our daily program, and our Faculty who prepared each girl thoroughly for the role she will play.

Here in the 1956 MARYSCRIPT we take you backstage to glimpse our rehearsals. We will go into classes with the stars and see the part each hour of instruction has played in our formation. And you will notice the invaluable lessons of fair play, true citizenship, and justice strengthened through work and play.

We are eager to begin our part in "The American Way of Life." May we never forget the lessons we have learned. May we love our part in this great Christian drama and exercise with joy the God-given rights of freedom of religion, freedom of press, freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom to live "The American Way of Life."

REVEREND CHARLES B. MYNAUGH
Spiritual Director of the Students

Notre Dame girls are proud to be part of the largest Catholic school system in the world, and one which in recent years has seen unparalleled expansion to meet the needs of the rising school population.

Our Archdiocesan Superintendent, Right Reverend Monsignor Edward M. Reilly, has demonstrated inspiring leadership in the tremendous task of directing the more than 400 diocesan schools. Assisting Monsignor Reilly are Reverend John J. Graham, Very Reverend John J. Haydt, and Reverend Frederick J. Stevenson.

Notre Dame's new school chaplain, Reverend Charles B. Mynaugh, celebrates Mass for us each Thursday, and is available afterward for individual counseling.

ADMINISTRATION

Sister Superior Genevieve Mary.....Principal
Sister Eleanor Marie.....Treasurer

Our religious teachers are Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, a Congregation of religious established in France in 1804 by Blessed Julie Billiart who later removed the Motherhouse to Namur, Belgium. Arriving in America in 1840, the Sisters have spread over many parts of the United States where they teach in parochial schools, academies, high schools, and colleges. The oldest school extant in Philadelphia, the Notre Dame Academy at West Rittenhouse Square, will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of its foundation in 1956. More than three thousand American Sisters of Notre Dame devote their lives to the training of youth in the highest ideals of spirituality, morality, and democracy.

Left: As seniors, careers are foremost in our minds. Here Sister Gabriel S. H. guides her homeroom as they discuss careers with a future.

Each homeroom teacher instructs her own section in the fundamentals of religion.

Sister Marcella Marie — Instrumental Sister Marie Angela — Vocal

Mr. Nicola Mastrangelo — Clarinet
Mr. Edwin Groer — Viola
Mr. George Hosfeld — Trumpet
Mr. John DeMatteis — Flute
Mr. Lewis Gino Raho — Oboe

Mr. John Capobianco — Bass
Mr. Giacinto Vitocolonna — French Horn
Mr. Fred C. Stoll — Trombone
Mr. Joseph Vetere — Cello
Mr. Nicholas D'Amico — Percussion

Sister Marcella Marie, head of the Department of Instrumental Music, demonstrates to a group of students the use of the Caliphone, a new device which enables eight students to listen to an opera without being disturbed by other students practicing. Cecilia Bradley is the only one who escaped the paper cutter.

Sister Marie Angela leads the Department of Vocal Music. Here she is pictured practicing with a group of second sopranos. Thursday, fourth period. Be sure not to miss the dust cover, on the piano (symbol of Sister's love of order) and little angels (symbols of our sweet voices). The gay singers are Marie Jordan, Donna Rocco, Rita Guarente, and Joy Luff.

Lay

Faculty Inspires

MISS GERALDINE FOREMNY, instructress of the violin watches the technique of two of her Senior Violinists, Dorothy Ryan and Margaret McFadden.

MRS. HELEN JEROME, in her attractive infirmary on the third floor, welcomes every ailing student with a sympathetic smile and an aspirin. When the photographer caught her, however, she was correcting health papers.

MISS JEANETTE VIZZARRI teaches English, Speech, and Speech Arts. Jeanne Little is conducting a discussion on "Television, Good or Bad?" Other panelists shown: Frances Green, Jane Weinmann, Phyllis White, and Ellen Diedrich.

MISS MARCELLA MICKA, Instructress in Physical Education Department and Coach of the Basketball Team, demonstrates to her leaders what "Ready, Set, on your Mark" means: Geri Welsh, Ann Molla, Louise Mancini, and Virginia Conlow.

MRS. CATHERINE NANGLE looks up in surprise as she hears a brilliant answer!

Even Marlene Cotsack has to laugh at the way she has spelled "biziness." MISS JUNE SLEZAK points out the mistake.

Love of Freedom

Yes, she does go to N.D. High School, but she teaches Spanish to green emblemed freshmen. Of course it's N.D.'s MISS MAE GERACE.

Just as MRS. GEORGIANA RILEY reaches the crucial moment in World War I, she discovers that one of her pupils is on the wrong page. These little incidents occur in every rehearsal, even for the "American Way of Life."

Rehearsals for our Role in Democracy

"Right to Work in Callings of our Choice"

Foundation of our Freedom —

Religion, the most important subject of the day, follows morning prayer, and the Salute to the Flag. It starts our day in a most befitting way.

Freshmen gain a deeper knowledge and love of Christ, by studying His life and Sacred Passion, and the doctrine that He taught to men.

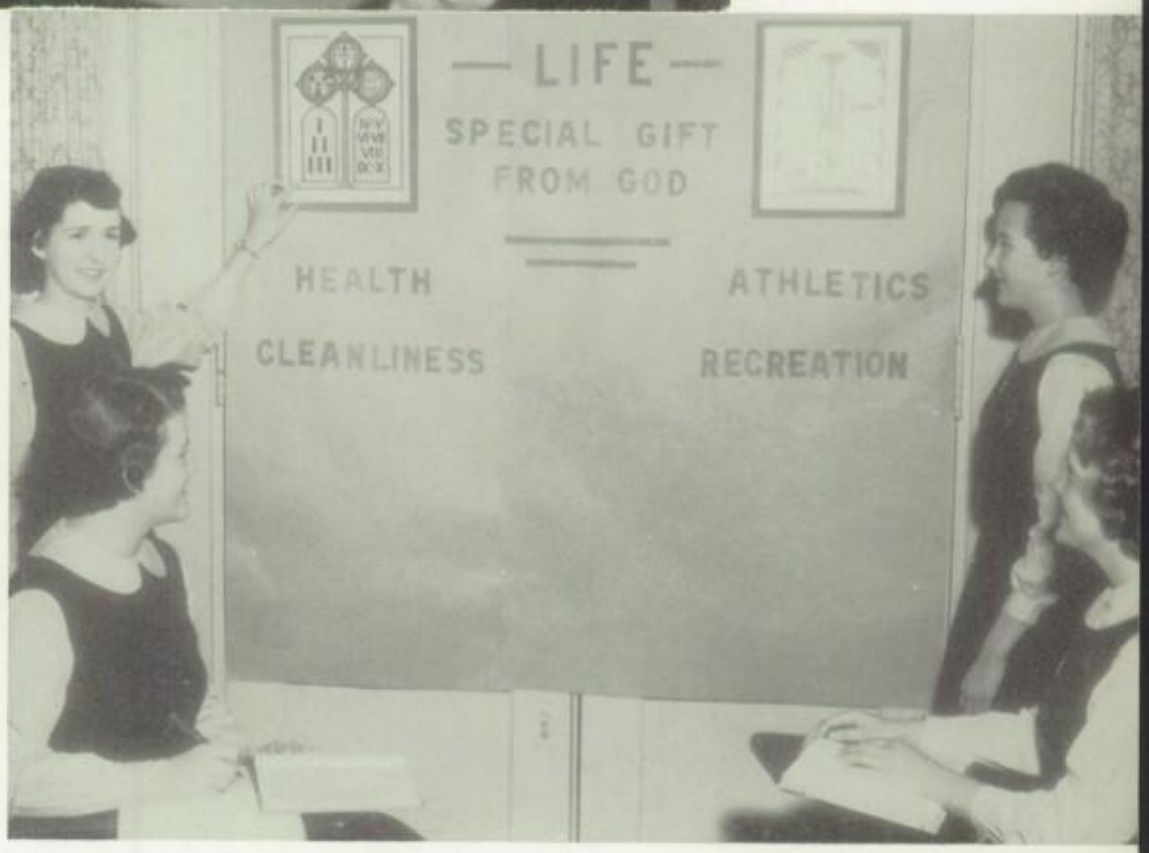
Sophomores learn the history of the Church that Christ founded, and study the means by which the grace of Christ comes to us—the Sacraments and prayer.

Juniors begin to realize the many duties pointed out by the commandments and the precepts that govern all of Christ's followers.

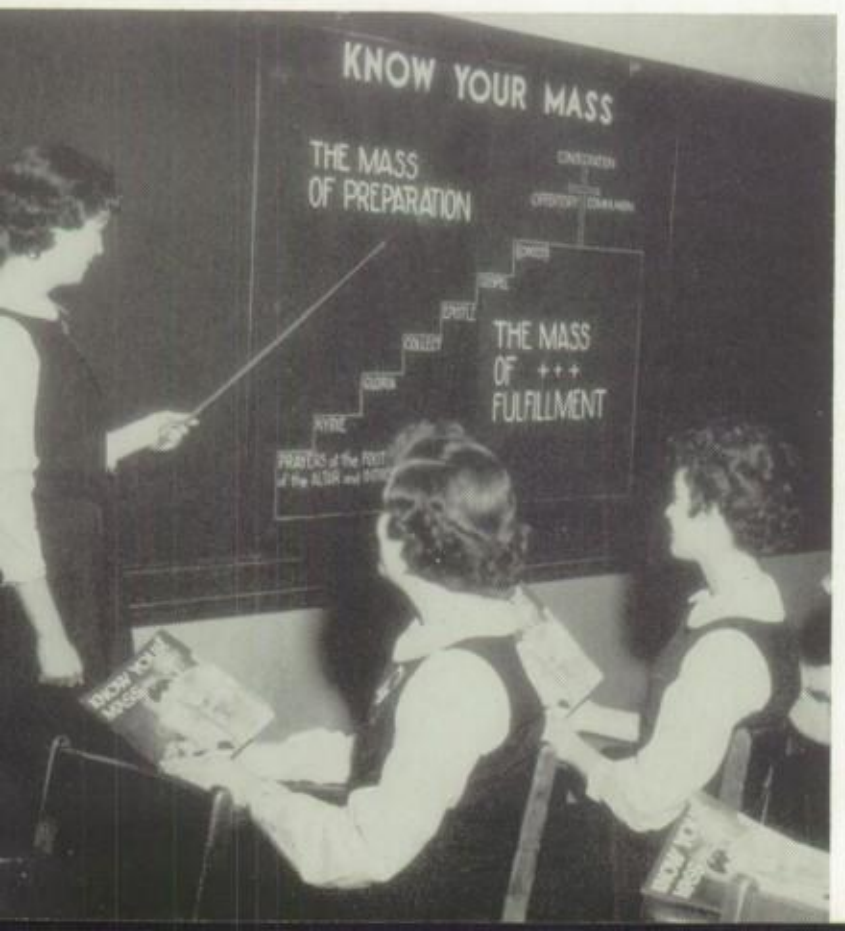
The Seniors study Apologetics, gaining a knowledge of our faith based on reason and logical proofs. To prepare for our vocation as wives and mothers, Seniors also study the graces given to us in the Sacrament of Matrimony and the responsibilities of the married state.

Catholic pamphlet "Why," issued by the Catholic Information Center, offers points for Senior Religion discussion. Carol Feiy points out a pertinent example to Kathleen Cox and Cyrilla Dougherty, showing that good Christians make good Americans.

Ann Barasha reminds her class that the Bible is the Inspired Word. Visible in the first row: Mary Andolfi, Catherine Barr, and Mary Ann Anderson, Barbara Conway, Ann Branon, Mary Begley.



Guidance classes learn that life is a special gift from God, as Nancy Kuhn points out to Mary Lawrence, Mary Jane McGuire, and Joan Long.



Belief in God

With the help of the "Know Your Mass" booklet, Margaret Guinan demonstrates to Jacqueline Heisner and Mary Ann Gessner the steps leading from the Mass of Preparation to the Mass of Fulfillment.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
BUREAU OF THE CENSUS
ONE BIRTH EVERY 8 SECONDS
ONE DEATH EVERY 21 SECONDS
ONE IMMIGRANT EVERY 2 MINUTES
ONE EMIGRANT EVERY 17 SECONDS

In National Problems classes, we study the economic and sociological responsibilities which flow from our American Way of Life and the Christian solutions to these problems. In this picture Antoinette Hesling puts the finishing touches on her Chart of Statistics showing the contribution the Census Bureau makes to solving problems confronting Americans.

Between grammar school days and college days there is a time called high school. During this time Notre Dame lasses plan their future. If college or nursing is our aim, high school days provide us with our first taste of "higher academic studies."

English played an important role in the life of our future collegians. Reading and discussing works of the great masters helped us in our own writing. We engaged in conflict with the delinquent comma and colon, learned to use the library for research, conducted panel discussions, enlarged our vocabulary, and kept up with current books and magazines.

In chemistry, biology, and physical science courses, we learned the marvelous laws governing the complicated processes of nature that we had always taken for granted. Besides our regular classes, several of our scientists entered projects in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search and in the National Wildlife Contest. Last year, fourteen out of fifteen entries received awards.

From Algebra I and Geometry we graduated to Algebra II and Trig. Now we can actually measure the height of Endie's turret without ladders. Trig developed into Solid Geometry, but we never lost hope. We still held the line with formulas for solving polyhedral angles, the triangular prism, and the parallelepiped.

Latin came next on our agenda. We fought the Gallic Wars with Caesar, cheered Cicero as he confronted the perfidious Cataline, and spent our fourth year following

Our Future Scientists

This diligent Language Arts class has a practice session before they actually record the broadcast that will be played on the radio. Julie Schreiber, Pat Welsh, Sylvia Bucari, Joan Sproul, Carolyn Taylor, Marianne Subers.

Before: Take your choice! Too much iron; too much sulfur, too much heat! One caused this. We can judge by the "happy faces" that the resulting "aroma" is delightful.
After: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again"—that's their motto. Eileen Carr, Dot Pajan, Vicki Tomko and Grace Rodgers smile after a successful demonstration by Sister Catharine Virginia.

Nurses and Teachers

Aeneas on his fateful journey to Hisperia. The never-ending battle with translation went right on!

Our Señoritas and Mademoiselles, by means of the Califone, enjoyed listening to Spanish and French language records. Then with ear and tongue trained to the correct intonation and pronunciation, they carried on conversations of their own and checked their improvement by means of tape recordings. (They studied irregular verbs, too!)

National Problems classes became open forums for animated—and sometimes heated—discussions that ranged all the way from the desirability of permitting eighteen-year-olds to vote, to the economic and sociological problems facing our national leaders today. We developed a keener appreciation of our American Way of Life and of the tremendous freedoms and responsibilities which are ours.

When Maryellen Bennett and Joan Bechler finally get the projector running, the English IV class enjoys Dickens' "Old Curiosity Shop" on the new daylight radiant screen.

For Our Country

Top—Right: Measuring the turret is an annual event in the Trig class. Some of the girls are examining the props they used while at the board. Ernestine Hilse, Nana Hayden, and Lynn Feeney check the last measurement before they determine the turret height.

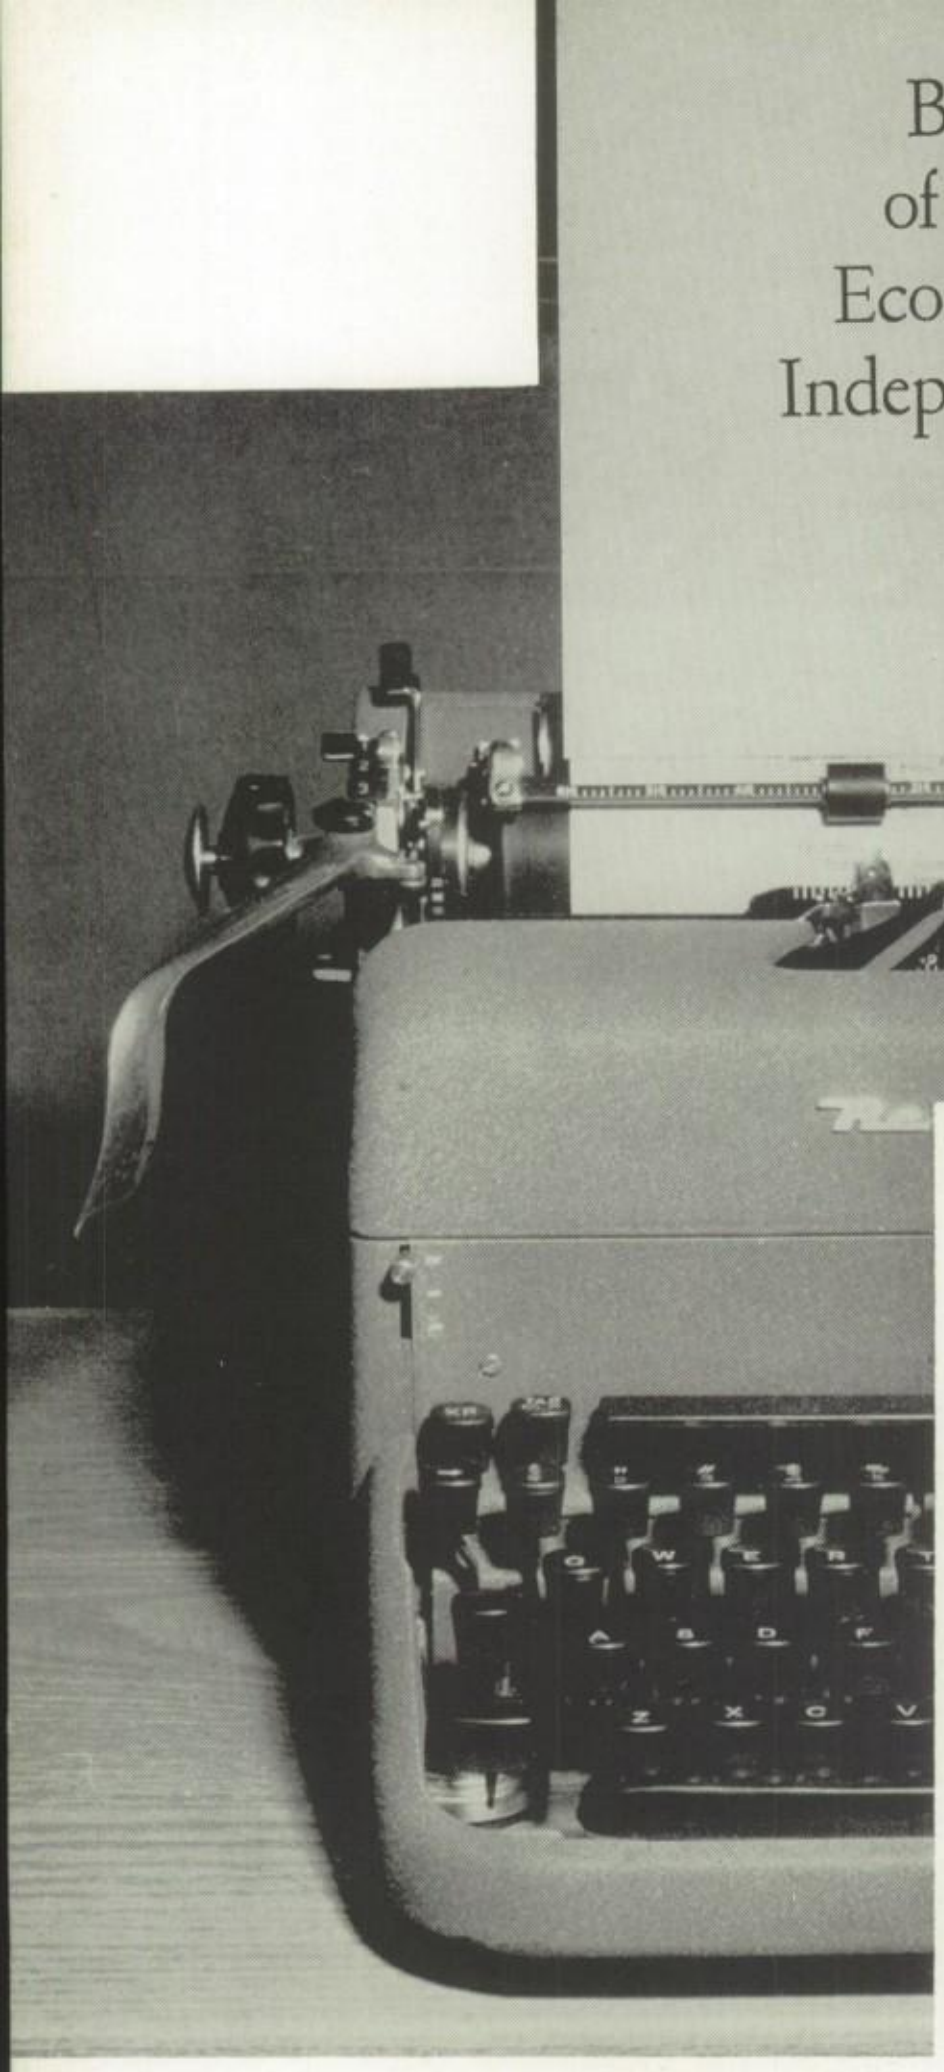
Basis of our Economic Independence

Commercial



Silence is queen in Room 308 as the tapping Transcription typists strain their ears to hear the click of Sister Magdalena's stopwatch, signal for the time-test to begin. The stampede is on, as fingers pound out increasing speeds. They skid to a halt and tally up the returns of their labor.

The bookkeepers almost unbalance their brains trying to balance the books; and the girls in Office Practice dub their class period the "Machine Age," as they strive to master the duplicating machine, the calculator, addressograph, and the ten-key listing machine.

The many hours spent in typing for the MARYSCRIPT and The Turret are amply rewarded when our yearbook and paper

Majors

Seniors in Office Practice are typing while they listen on a dictaphone. Gwen Campbell, Mary Ellen Bennett, Belva Waughn, Jean Broadhurst, Mary Mann.

are constantly rated All-Catholic and All-American. The behind-the-scenes helpers play no small part in getting The Turret and MARYSCRIPT to press.

Commercial students try each year to match Sister Magdalena's zeal by laboring to make the 65-page program for the Senior play a work of art, by mimeographing reams of English and Religion class notes, and by helping Miss Canavan in the office.

Students are trained not only in the rudimentary processes of business but also in high social and moral standards, learning that more important than actual skills are the three C's of the Commercial Department Creed—to be capable, cooperative, and courteous.

Transcription group get real office experience as they type their stenography dictation. Alice Barans, Joan Behl, Ronnie Borcky, Josephine Calvarese, Rita Durning.

Antoinette Viscidi demonstrates the proper method of inserting cards in the typewriter. Dunia Ortiz is the pleased observer.

Splashes of Color for our Canvas

The Art Department adds zest to every phase of N.D. life. Statistics for school drives sparkle when a dash of color is added. Basketball posters capture Endie's dancing feet on cardboard. And, each year, the spotlight shines on stage sets prepared by the art students for the Senior Play. At the yuletide season, Notre Dame artists bring Christmas spirit to every classroom and corridor. These energetic girls also devote their talents to Red Cross work, making favors and decorations for the orphanages and hospitals.

Art students attend class, too! Sophomores study still-life, design, and perspective; Juniors, life drawing; while Seniors prepare to be future illustrators or draftsmen.

Beth Quinn works diligently as she tries to "ink-wash" Rosemary Crosby. C'mon, Rosalie Byrne and Carol Paul, you can't do it that way! Mary Manion "works away" while perched on the window seat.

A behind-the-scenes peek at the beginnings of our Christmas decorations. Our artists devoted many hours to bring the Christmas spirit to N.D.

Music Majors Supply Background for our Theme

Top: Sue Lague sounds an "A" for Barbara Weare and Pat Paterson as they tune up for the weekly orchestra practice.

Middle: "No squeeks this week, we have new reeds." Madeline Havacek, Theresa Fleitz, Kathryn Hunt, and Alice Barans insert new reeds in their instruments.

Bottom: These seniors must be sure of their orchestra music, judging from the smiles on their faces. Read up the stairs: Philomena D'Orazio, Dunia Ortiz, Joan Behl.

On Tuesday, lesson day, eleven diocesan instrumental teachers arrive at Notre Dame. With zeal they instruct 105 girls of the music department in sixteen instruments.

With all the fun, our girls really work diligently and seriously, for besides lessons in the history and theory of music, in the Spring we have a Musicale to produce.

Good Homemakers Real Rulers of America

Here at N.D. Home Ec students shine as brightly as the pots and pans in the pink and gray lab. Proof? Certainly! Lemon chiffon pie with graham cracker crust and tempting fudge convinced the Middle States Evaluating Committee. And the lay teachers thought so after they had eaten the Christmas cookies made by our homemaking majors. If you still need more proof, a roast chicken dinner complete with salad, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes and giblet gravy, buttered peas and dessert should certainly convince you.

They're adept in sewing, too. Before starting the actual sewing, our girls study style, material and color for their effect on the figure. With this knowledge behind them our Home Ec majors are ready to begin. Tack, baste, tuck! Finally, the sewing machine! When the annual fashion show arrives, these girls model their bright cottons, tailored coats, and pert spring suits to delight an appreciative audience.

The proof of good cooking is shown by the happy group of cooks as they assemble to share the full-course chicken dinner which they prepared in December. . . .

Admiring the beautiful china which Sister Superior presented to the Home Economics Department this year are the four girls who acted as servers for the members of the Evaluating Committee: Antoinette Hesling, Helen McLaughlin, Patricia O'Mailey, and Kathleen O'Connell.

Patricia O'Mailey (standing) and Helen McLaughlin (kneeling) fit Antoinette Hesling's spring duster of lustrous rayon. Looks as though these fashions will be a true community enterprise.

These Seniors think sewing is fun, judging from the smiles on their faces: Ernestine Hilse, Grace Rodgers, Rosalie Taylor, and Grace Amati. They are showing the new cases and boxes which hold each piece of material safely and orderly.

With a Fashion Show coming soon, three of our seamstresses work diligently to create pretty apparel: Barbara Kiselas, Eileen Gallagher, and Charlotte Brown fit the pattern, pin and snip expertly.

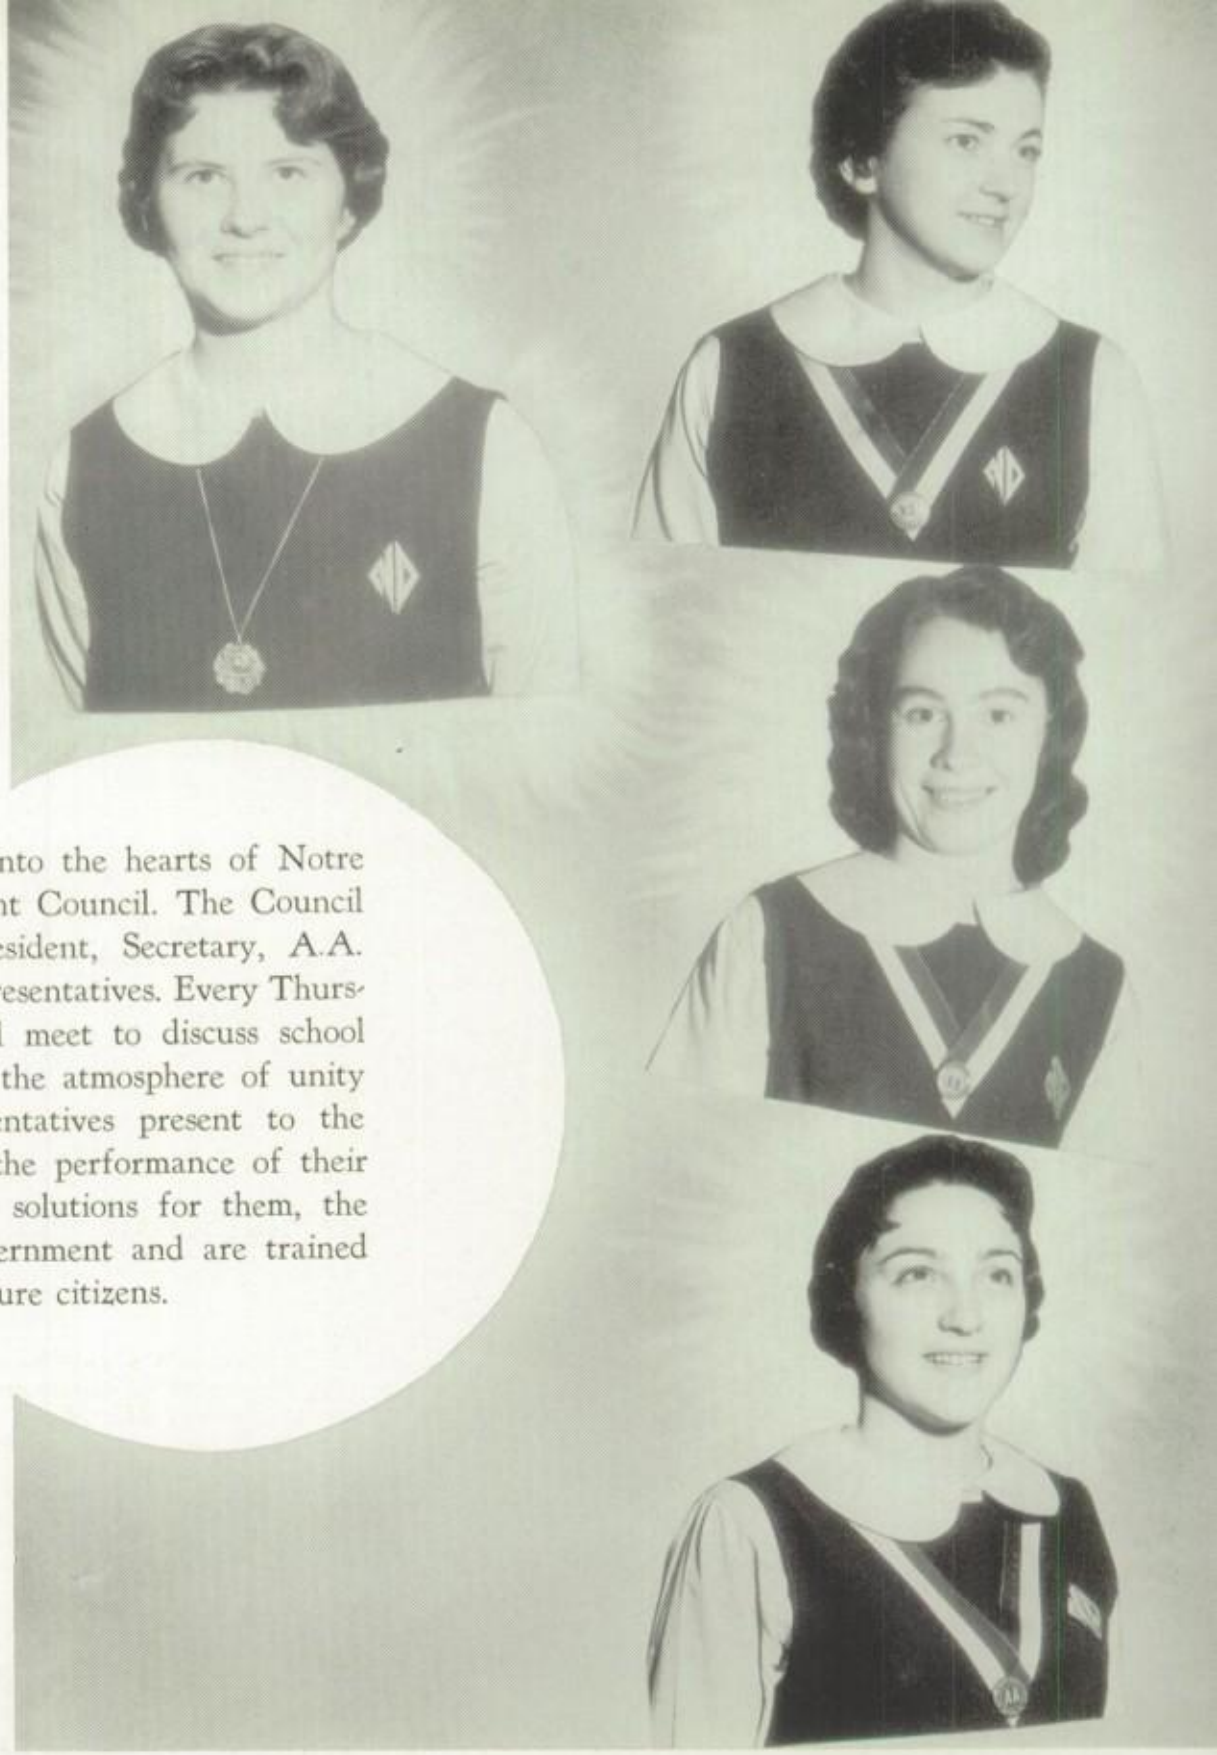
Preview of the American Way of Life

"Dignity and Freedom of the Individual Emphasized"

Student Organization



To instill cooperation and loyalty into the hearts of Notre Dame students, is the aim of the Student Council. The Council is composed of the President, Vice-President, Secretary, A.A. President, and thirty-two Homeroom Representatives. Every Thursday afternoon, members of the Council meet to discuss school problems and to create at Notre Dame the atmosphere of unity and harmony. The Homeroom Representatives present to the Council, problems which may arise in the performance of their duties. By discussing these and finding solutions for them, the girls learn the fundamentals of self-government and are trained to live the American Way of Life as future citizens.

The Big Four

Read from the Top: Elaine Lynch, President of the Student Council; Joan Jaixen, Secretary; Clare Delowery, Vice-president; Anne Molla, President of the Athletic Association.

Installation Day brings back Joan Woods, President of the Class of 1955, to offer her congratulations to Elaine Lynch, President of the Student Organization for 1956. No truer rehearsal for "The American Way of Life" exists than the effort to achieve democratic school government.

Apprentices for Democratic Government

Father Stevenson, with the assistance of Joan Woods, congratulates Joan Jaixen as he presents her with the badge symbolic of her duties as Secretary of Student Council. Self-government is really the basis of democracy.

Smiling Senior Homeroom Representatives take time out from a weekly meeting of the Student Organization. Their many duties include counseling the girls of their respective homerooms and reviewing the various problems arising in everyday school life. Here, during one of their brief intermissions, they look forward to cap and gown measurements on February 27. Seated: Virginia De Berardinis and Betty Lou Kouba. Standing: Sally Hoover, Barbara Chambers, Jeanne Sullivan, Helen McLaughlin, and Dorothy Pajan.

Use paper plates in the cafeteria? The smiles of the hostesses could mean yes, or they could imply that the suggestion was meant to be a joke. Standing: Cyrilla Dougherty, Phillis Donato, Carol Feiy, Kay Doyle, Roberta Dolan (Chairman). Seated: Lynn Feeney, Mary Cunningham, Theodora Closkey, Joanne Foremny, Nancy Fitzgerald.

These "traffic cops" meet with the "captain" to check to see if the other "policemen" are faithful to their posts. Standing: Ann Frank, Jane Kulikowski, Antoinette Viscidi. Seated: Madaline Casey, Rosemary Morgan (Chairman), Kathleen Ryan, Elizabeth Morris. The Usher Squad directs all traffic on corridors and stairs.

Order and Discipline for Strong Characters

Senior bus marshals report to the chairman the time of arrival for each bus before they report to class. Seated: Ann Raco (Chaiman). Standing: Mary O'Malley, Marie Jordan, Mary Ellen O'Connell, Nancy McNulty, Mary Crandley, Mary Ann O'Halloran. Transportation Squad supervises all busses, trains, and trolleys carrying Notre Dame students.

Lined or unlined jackets—that is the question! Our A.A. Reps can't seem to make a choice. Standing: Frances Ann Thomas, Faith Rothkopf, Rosalie Gebhardt, Jean Broadhurst, Phillis Donato, Elizabeth McCaffrey. Seated: Kathleen Sullivan, Patricia Althouse, Elizabeth Kapuscinski, Judy Desmond, Mary Pennington, Ann Molla (A.A. President), Joan LeKites.

"Pride and Prejudice"

Miss Bingley's mention of Charles brings a sparkling smile to Jane's face; Maggie and Mrs. Gardiner beam contentedly. Jane, Harriet Owens; Miss Bingley, Helen Smith; Maggie, Mary Dempsey; Mrs. Gardiner, Bernice Beyer.

During November, we stepped back into the nineteenth century, into the lives of the lovable Bennet family: chatterbox Mrs. Bennet, who hopes to marry her three daughters to eligible males; Mr. Bennet, whose good nature is often called upon to soothe his wife's upset nerves; shy Jane; clear-headed Elizabeth, the prejudiced one; and harum-scarum Lydia.

Lizzie's problem of loving (without realizing) wealthy Mr. Darcy, proud of his noble birth, became ours as we followed this charming lass through difficulties and heartbreaks to the happy ending when true love conquered both pride and prejudice.

Congratulations to a superlative cast! A hearty "thank you" to the staging committee, to our artists who designed the stage sets, and to the program committee, who spent weeks typing our sixty-page play program. Forget them? Never a single one!

In the finale of the Christmas Pageant, the Little King is raised on high for all to see and worship.

Noel . . . Lights the Way to True Freedom

The Wise Men follow the star in their search for the Christ Child. Baltazar, Joanne Hugues; Melchior, Suzanne Gatta; Gaspar, Rosemary Morgan.

The beautiful Christmas story was narrated from the Scripture passages before each pantomime and carol. Kathleen O'Connell, Mary Anastasi, and Barbara Kiselas divided the narration in true liturgical fashion.

"Hail full of grace!" The Angel Gabriel foretells the coming of the Messiah to the Virgin who wonders at the appearance of the heavenly messenger. The Angel is Jane Connelly; the Virgin, Maryellen Bennett.

Christmas Spirit entered Notre Dame early this year. Enlisting the help of the art students, she set them to work decorating the corridors and classrooms with scenes from the Christmas story.

To prove that Scrooge has no part in Endieland, the Spirit of Christmas organized the student body into a Catholic Action Club, who collected, wrapped, and decorated toys and gifts for orphans and old folks. As Christmas drew near, the tableaux of the First Noel, featuring the Orchestra and the Glee Club, brought the true meaning of Christmas to the hearts of all.

Senior Prom—

"The Night was Filled with Music"

First a swish of silk, then a rustle of taffeta. . . . How beautiful they look, you think, as you enter the Forest Room of the Broadwood Hotel, where the smiling reception committee are waiting. You and your escort receive a silvery looking box, holding your very own Prom Keys, especially designed for the Class of 1956. Iridescent programs of frosty white recall the Prom theme, "Winter Wonderland." Rainbow patterns twinkle in the lights as starry-eyed seniors sway to the music of Marty Caruso's Orchestra. Before you can believe it, you are dancing the last number, "It's Almost Tomorrow," and the evening ends with a specially-arranged breakfast in the main dining room of the hotel. All the wonder of the Prom is captured for you in the Prom pictures, which will bring back always memories of your resplendent Senior Prom.

This Page: The panoramic view of the dance shows that every one is enjoying "the loveliest night of the year"—the Senior Prom.
"Mimi Pennington, you forgot your two ten-cent pieces!", exclaims Joann Pecori. "Who me?" Geri Welsh and Kathleen Nolan affirm the dire truth.

By the Notre Dame Orchestra

Before most girls had started thinking of school, members of the Orchestra were braving the August heat to begin rehearsals for the 1956 season. Our first performance came in September when "The March of the Peers" led our student officers up the aisle for the annual ceremony of Installation of Officers.

In October we offered a musical program for the Middle States Evaluating Committee, featuring the "Bridal Rose Overture" and the rollicking "Three Little Pigs."

Who of the Senior Play cast will ever forget the lovely curtain music—"Neopolitan Nights" by J. S. Zamicnik, and "Tara" by Max Steiner.

The Musicale in April took us for a holiday in "Oklahoma," then for a visit to the continent, with "Rumanian Overture" and "Swedish Rhapsody." After a musical moment with "La Gitana" in Spain, we went into Central America with "Tamboo." The finale, "A Salute to America," given with the Glee Club, found us once more in our beloved homeland.

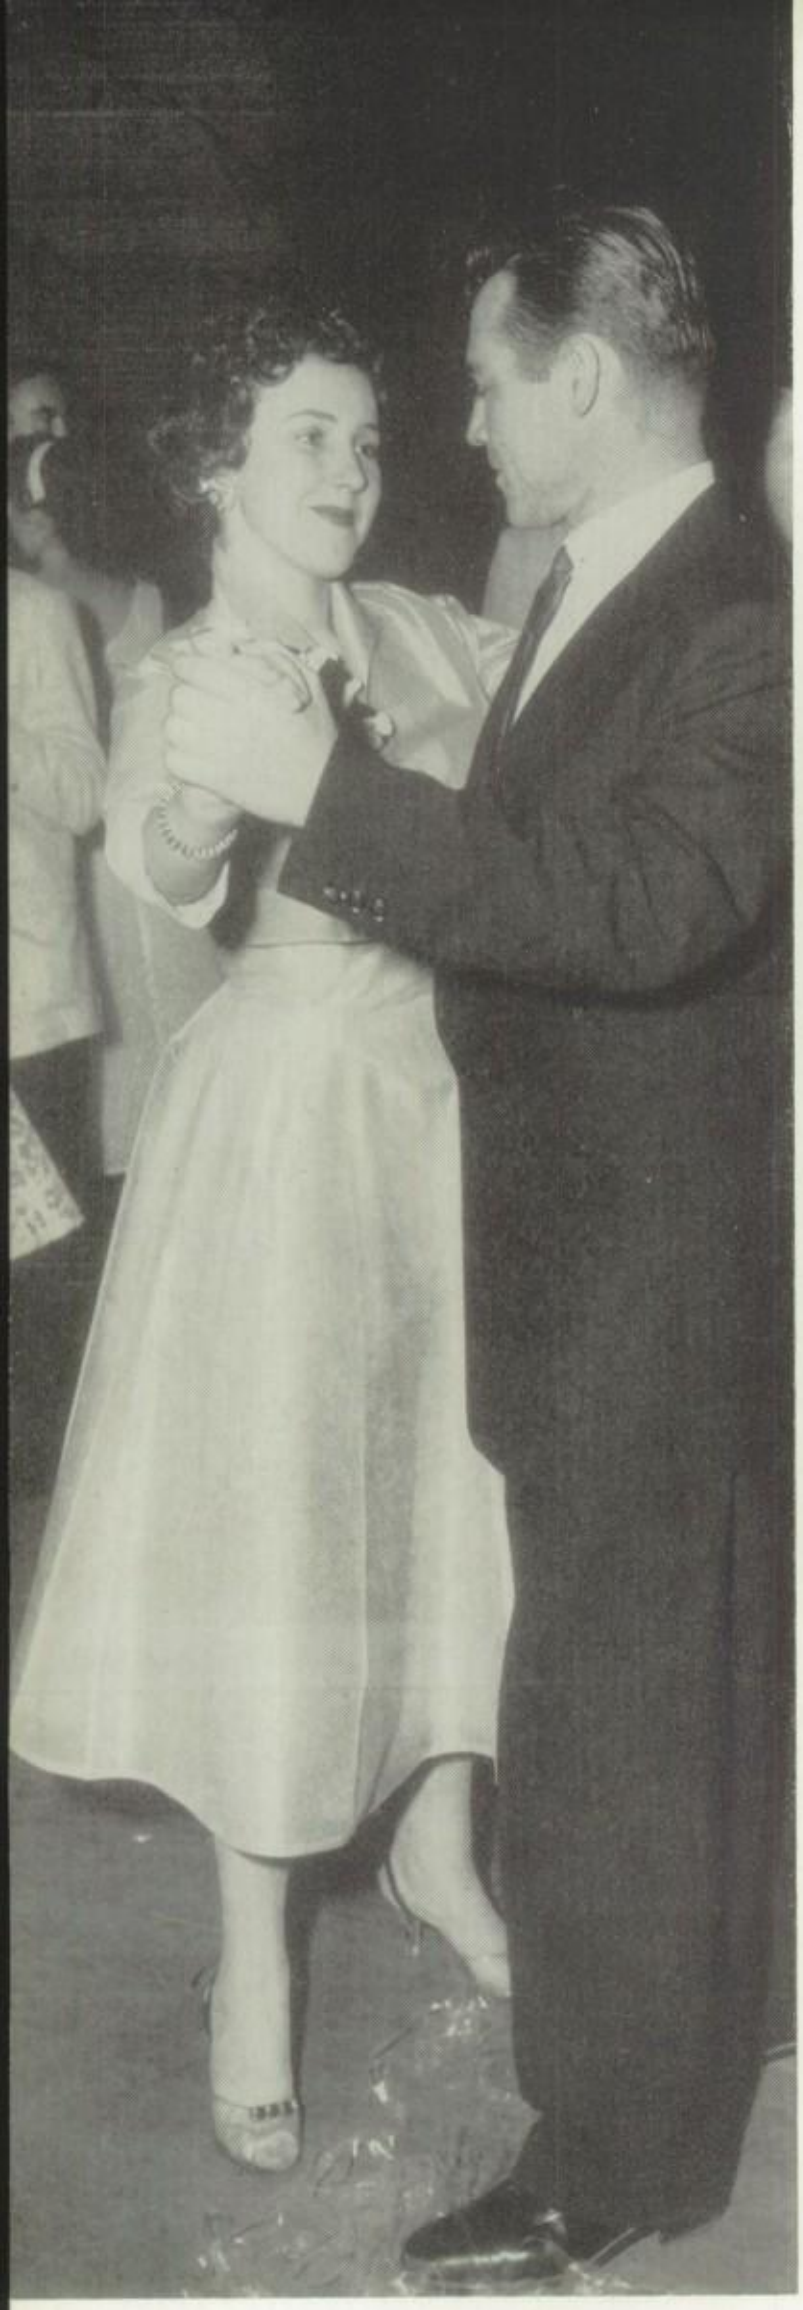
Juniors Understudy



Anna Mychajliw and Lee Blonorovych beam as the orchestra plays their request number. The cellophane only lends smoothness to their tripping feet.

Full dresses swirl as the dancing couples sway to a smooth number. Gay colors blend with the sparkling lights and rhythmic music to form a panorama of dancing delight. Identifiable in the foreground: Diane Guy and Frank Ryan, Charlotte Konstance, and Jean Procopio.

Junior year has been a time of growth in many ways; mentally and spiritually, we know, but also socially. The first two have been pictured elsewhere in the school-life section, so that this page has been reserved to show social high lights of the blue-emblemed year for the Class of 1957.

Junior Day was beautiful with our individual corsages of white carnations tied with blue bows, and our lovely Lady of Fatima statues and rosaries as favors.

The Roles of Democratic Social Living

The hilarious comedy, "Camouflage" featured the awkward maid, who broke the statue of Uncle Denis's grandfather's great-uncle and then was forced to impersonate it. Pictured in the cast are: (seated) Rita Keesey, Jeanne Little and Jean McVeigh; (standing) Jane Harris, Joan Kennedy, Margaret Filliben, Margaret Esher, Mary Keenan, Francine Coll, and Katherine Harkins.

Spring made its debut! With this came the rainbow of colors always associated with the Junior Prom. On April second, Juniors danced to the Music of Bill Jacona's Orchestra at Columbus Center in Chester. The spacious hall was filled with pastel hues, as the theme "Springtime Splendor" was carried out in the lovely prom decorations. As the girls danced to "Younger Than Springtime" they gathered their memories, now tucked away in their hearts, never to be forgotten.

How can we portray all the fun, frolic, laughter, and weary but happy hours which blended to make the Junior Day Plays?

In "Three Pills in a Bottle" we discovered with the little sick boy how different the real person can be from his exterior. "Camouflage" presented an amusing situation that taught several people quite a lesson. "The Perfect Date" kept everyone on the edge of his seat hoping Linda would spend the evening with Dick.

Between acts, our famous "Keynotes" and the Junior members of the Glee Club outdid themselves to entertain us on this never-to-be-forgotten day.

On May 4 we were measured for our school rings, a sure sign that Junior Year was drawing to a close. In September we will receive our rings and be wearers of gold, but the year of blue will remain a vivid and happy memory.

"Think lovely thoughts, girls, and you'll sing that way." How often we heard Sister say this as we practiced for our assemblies. Notre Dame Day was our first event, when our senior choristers thrilled the Freshman Class of Green with "A Little Bit of Heaven."

At Christmas time we welcomed in the season of joy and happiness with pantomimes on the Christmas Story, carols old and new, and Niedlinger's beautiful "Birthday of A King."

A radio program on "The Ballad," tape-recorded at Notre Dame and broadcast over station WHYY, featured our Glee Club. The broadcast was one of a series of educational programs prepared by diocesan high schools for in-school listening. Do you remember how exciting it was on February 2 to tune in to station WHYY and hear ourselves sing?

The most wonderful event of the year, of course, was the annual musicale on April 20 and 21. Our opening number, "Unfold Ye Portals" by Charles Gounod, was followed by "I'll Walk With God" and "America, the Beautiful," two of our favorites. As we were singing the beautiful finale, "Salute to America," arranged by our own Mr. Sabatini, we thought of Sister Marie Angela's words to us. Our thoughts were lovely because our memories were lovely, of the four years of hard work and fun that had their climax in our 1956 Musicale.

Newspaper, Winner of Freedom Foundations Award

Editor-in-Chief, Frances Ann Thomas turns in desperation to Mary Dempsey, Public Relations Editor for advice on the layout, after several vain attempts to capture the attention of Dot Tynan, Exchange Editor, who is engrossed in Mindy Carson's version of "You Can't Be True To Two."

"Deadline Day" is only one of a series of climaxes in the life of our newspaper. The weeks of work that precede this fateful day have their own ups and downs. It all begins when four page editors are selected, who assign stories to the various staff members. When the reporters have managed, somehow, to secure all the information they need for their stories, they sharpen their pencils to write—and rewrite!

"Should we have a flush left or a full line head for this story?" Editors rack their brains as "D Day" approaches, dreaming up headlines for every story and the right caption for every picture.

Left: "Where's the dummy?" asks Ethel Davis. "Who's a dummy?" replies Pat Pidgeon while Carol Paul and Jane Ford are the culprits who are examining the dummy of the February issue of the Turret.

Right: Dot McKenna, Sports editor, glances at a typical basketball shot while Vickie Tomko shows Caroline Marchlik that the headline is too long as they both check the well-used style sheet while Mary Ann Grimes and Jeanne Sullivan look for misspelled names in their article.

When the article and heads are written, the typists begin. The printer comes, too soon, to collect the copy, which he prints on long galleys and sends them back to the editors, who must find a way to fit all the news on only four pages. Stories have a way of stepping over the boundaries of the editors' carefully-planned layouts.

Beating the deadline, but with no space to spare, we rush the corrected galleys and the paste-up back to the printer. Before we have had time to breathe the page proofs are back. One more hectic afternoon of proof-reading, and the paper is "put to bed" for the duration. Finally, the printer returns with your school paper—The Turret.

Maryscript Composers of "The American Way of Life"

In September our MARYSCRIPT Staff began their enjoyable struggle for a superb year book.

After a spirited debate over the color, grain, and pattern of our cover, we turned to a discussion of themes, finally selecting "The American Way of Life."

Writing articles and captions was our hardest but most satisfying task. We rewrote them so many times that the waste paper filled several baskets.

We had fun writing heads, making two copies of the dummy, cropping and pasting pictures, and correcting galleys and page proofs.

Meantime, our MARYSCRIPT typists were checking, alphabetizing, and typing the 335 Senior write-ups. When that huge task was over, they typed articles and captions for us.

We are proud of the lovely art work of our talented Art Staff, who carried out on title and special pages our theme of "The American Way of Life," and made our MARYSCRIPT the beautiful book it is.

The recording Staff made permanent our memories of N.D. in an audial as well as visual form, by capturing for us the familiar sounds—the bell for change of classes, the hum of the cafeteria chatter during lunch periods, strains of the glee club and orchestra, and the zest of N.D.'s girls during a pep rally.

MARYSCRIPT is now our memory book of 1956.

Ann Raco and Marie Anastasi seem puzzled as they try to decipher the spelling of a word. Ann Marie Stolz checks a girl's section while Kathleen Keefe sorts some already typed articles.

What happened, Mary! Isabell Jenkins and Betty Lou Kouba dictate to Mary Deemer. Theodora Closkey and Joyce Taraborrelli look for a missing roster.

"Right to Move About Freely at Home and Abroad"

Right Down the Alley

Gehris played host to the photographer this year. Two of our bowling fans, Lynn Feeney and Marian Whalen, displayed their skill for him.

Always a popular sport at Moylan, bowling was even more so this year—491 girls! Penn Rec, Stoney Creek, Gehris, Collingdale, Playhouse and Pilgrim Gardens played host to N.D. bowling enthusiasts.

Several centers supplied instructors—another first in N.D. history! These bowling "magistri" passed on many helpful suggestions and useful tips. They demonstrated the proper way to approach the foul line, the correct time to begin the swing, and the proper way to roll the ball.

Once a week the girls, divided into teams of four, assembled at their respective centers to play two games. To be eligible for the Sports Banquet in May, each bowling fan had to play her quota of 28 games. While busy treasurers collected dues, adept presidents kept accurate records of the scores, for these scores determine the recipients of the trophies at the Banquet. Awards are given for the highest single score, highest average, and for the highest team score at each center.

Hop-skip-jump, foul shooting, class relay, underleg relay, overhead relay, ping-pong, baseball throw, basketball throw, shoe race, tug of war, dashes, three legged race, broad jump—in one day? Yes, N.D.'s Field Day includes all of these.

Field Day is an annual event at Moylan, and all look forward to it. One of the things that the participants enjoy is the fact that it is held on a school day in May, while the rest of the girls are attending classes.

Eliminations were held in the gym classes, so that each girl would have the opportunity to try out. The fifteen highest in each contest compete on Field Day.

Leaders Club

"If you see us coming, better step aside!"

Has someone invaded Notre Dame? No, just another of Miss Micka's lively Monday morning gym classes starting off on the right foot with exercises to music. With a shrill blow of her whistle we went into action, touching our toes (ouch!), bending our knees (crack!), stretching our arms, and enduring other muscle-stretchers designed to make us spry and cheerful.

In the Fall we enjoyed square dancing, and the ever-popular Mexican Hat Dance. Can we ever forget Miss Micka's restrained "seriousity"? During the cold months of winter we warmed ourselves by indoor sports: volley-ball, basketball, ping-pong, and dodge ball. In Spring we frolicked in the out-of-doors. Some, who were athletically inclined, joined in the relay races and softball playing, while others with less enthusiasm for sports enjoyed jumping-rope, a reminder of grammar school days.

With pinnies clean and sneakers laced, the members of the Leaders Club assisted Miss Micka by checking attendance and maintaining order in the gym. Their hard work helped to keep gym periods functioning smoothly and made more enjoyable the sports of the year.

Tryouts for the annual Field Day were held in every gym class, with all girls competing in the broad jump, hop, skip and jump, basketball, softball throws, relays and other events. When Field Day events were finished, the class with the most points was awarded the title, "Champions of Field Day!"

Cheerleaders ENJOY Freedom of Speech!

"Pass that ball and shoot it in;
We'll show them we've got the vim."

Who are the girls with vim and energy around Notre Dame? Why, the peppy cheerleaders, of course. With witty Maureen McLaughlin as captain, these girls conducted all the clever pre-game rallies and stirred our team on to victory. From the time our pepsters donned their new white suits and saddles until the last echo of a cheer died away, they were the girls with the resounding school spirit. New cheers and the old, familiar ones, were executed with a lively bounce and sparkling rhythm that only Notre Dame cheerleaders could exhibit. Our fast-moving basketball team racked up the necessary points and our girls sparked them on for overwhelming victories. With the help of senior cheerleaders Ginny DeBerardinis, Mary Ann Grimes, Nancy Darlington and Jane Ford (Endie), two year members of the varsity; and the enthusiasm of Barbara Hutchinson, Mary Dehlinger, Peggy Harvey, Maureen Flynn, Joan Mahon, Dolores Mahler, Joan Sproul, and Charlotte Beaumont, Captain Maureen gathered thunderous cheering for the Bronze and Blue. We hope that the gay spirit of the 1955-56 Cheerleaders will be carried on by their successors.

Varsity Basketball . . .

Under the diligent training of our tactful and self-effacing coach, Miss Marcella Micka, Notre Dame Brownies had a wonderful season, winning the trophy for achieving a second place in the League, with six wins and two losses.

Captain Rosalie Gebhardt (Gebby) broke all records for individual scoring, totaling 216 points during the eight games. And right with her on every play were Cuddy O'Connell, Betty Kapuscinski, Angie Imburgia, Franny Shakespeare, and Kate Sullivan. Their teamwork and cooperation have left an indelible record of good sportsmanship and spirited loyalty at Notre Dame.

No account of the 1956 season would be complete without mentioning our Notre Dame rooters who cheered our team to victory. Who could ever forget these Brownies who have helped to lift school spirit to the heights of the true Notre Dame level!

But win or lose, each girl who participates receives a wonderful prize—a chance to attend our Sports Banquet.

The Banquet is a great event at N.D. After a delicious turkey dinner, including mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, peas, cake, and ice cream, the awards are presented—letters for the team and cheerleaders, trophies for the winning bowlers, a prize for the ping-pong champ, and the Field Day trophy.

Camera Club On Guard

Clockwise, beginning with upper left: Taken by Carol Paul during an actual performance. Mr. B. announces Lydia's elopement. . . . The shrine of Our Lady on the Feast of the Immaculate Conception by Christine Tobin. . . . Carol Paul also snapped Bingley trying to persuade Darcy to be agreeable. . . . Eileen Carr took the next two groups of Kathleen Ryan, Anne Frank, Helen Hart, Carol Paul (stage managers) and of Anna Aloisi, Ann Camplone, and Mary Crandley painting scenery. . . . The group of sophomores painting Christmas posters is by Christine Tobin. . . . Eileen Carr snapped Miss Micka with Judy Desmond looking over her shoulder and Gebby facing her. . . . Carol Paul caught Collins in his famous proposal to Elizabeth. Proof of the actual performance going on is Rosalie Byrne prompting off-stage. These snaps were taken from behind stage without a flash on tri-x film with an Argus C3 camera. . . . Finally Eileen Carr caught Anne M. Stolz, Clare Delowery, Anne Flavin, and Dorothy McKenna cleaning up after a performance.

Our Lady Crowned

On a day as bright as daffodils, fourteen hundred of Mary's Flowers paid Our Lady homage at the annual May Procession.

Our lark-voiced Glee Club sang May hymns to our Heavenly Mother. The climax of the morning came when May Queen, Mary Tracey, chosen for her especial devotion to Mary, crowned Our Lady, Queen of our hearts and Queen of the May. Surely Our Holy Mother rejoiced at the humble praise of her daughters.

The thought provoking words of Right Reverend Monsignor Reilly's sermon, and the happy moment when we learned that Anne Dougherty had won the poetry prize for the finest poem on our Blessed Mother, will remain ever with us.

Right Reverend Monsignor Edward M. Reilly gives his annual talk at our 1955 May Procession. . . . Margaret Redmond, Mary Corr, and Mary Lou Gibson lead the procession which is composed of the entire student body.

as Queen of Freedom

Curtain Rings Down

Graduation! A day of excitement, of hopes and fears, of joy and sorrow! After four years of work and fun it's here. The orchestra begins "Pomp and Circumstance" and slowly we march down the aisle. After many practices, we are actually walking down the center aisle of St. Joseph's! Turning gracefully, we take our places. The Salutatorian rises and delivers her address. When it is time to receive our diplomas, the realization that we are no longer students of Notre Dame hits. But in our hearts we know that we will always belong to Notre Dame. Yes, "we will be true to you."

for Seniors

Joan Gormley delivers the challenging message of the valedictory to her fellow graduates. . . . Suzanne Varano, as Salutatorian, welcomes the parents and guests to the graduation ceremony. . . . The distinguished honor students and prize winners receive rewards for their hard work.

Curtain Calls—

Our Alumnae Living the American Way

A lovely bride, symbol of the scores that visit the chapel on their wedding day, places a bouquet before the shrine of Our Lady while Blessed Julie seems to smile benignly on her children. Once more Antoinette Valocchi asks Our Lady's blessing.

Left: Mrs. Margaret Byrne Love '49, president of the Alumnae Association, on a recent visit to school with her darling girls: Denise (standing) and Lois, represents the hundreds of our Alumnae who have answered the vocation to matrimony in the truly Christian, which is the truly American Way.

Above: A rehearsal for capping at Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital shows a tiny group of hundreds who enter pre-professional training. Here, Sister Inez, superintendent of nurses, tries a cap on Joan Venuto. Watching are Catherine Dacey and Eleanor Bixby both of the Class of 1955.

Symbolic of those other hundreds, specially chosen by Our Lord to be His Spouses and to aid in His labors of educating other Catholic girls is Sister Anne Elizabeth, recently of Notre Dame, now in the Art Department of Little Flower High School.

Below: Miss Marie Canavan '55 has been selected as representative of the best of the thousands of graduates now carrying on the Christian and true American Way in the business world. Miss Canavan is secretary to our principal and general custodian of records at Notre Dame.

Since the first class of twenty-six girls graduated from Notre Dame as its pioneer group from a diocesan central high school in 1936 to the present class of 336 seniors in 1956, more than six thousand graduates have left our high school, prepared to live successfully not only in a material way, but also, in proportion to their cooperation with the opportunities offered them, successfully, morally and spiritually. These Christian women, many of them mothers now of large families, or advancing in various professional fields, or members of religious communities, are carrying out in their lives the true American Way of Life.

Their faith is manifested in devotion to their Church and its duties; their hope is characteristically based on dependence upon God and His Blessed Mother; their charity, in recognizing in all those whom they meet the Mystical Body of Christ, is beautiful to behold and a Christian Womanhood, based on Faith, Hope, and Charity, is truly established in the American Way.

A dream comes true on these radiant faces! Our sophomore reps have just been told that they will have a dance-a square dance no less! Really All-American! Seated: Patricia Fetter, Helen Woods, Rosemary McManus, Mary Lou Kenney, Patricia Perfetti. Standing: Jean Anderson, Roseanne Gormley, Mary Welsh, Janet De Maine.

With a Freshmen Frolic coming up these wearers of green have much to discuss. The question of crowns is one of their problems. Seated: Christine Hochendoner. Standing: Vicki Dieckhaus, Eleanor Weihmann. Donna Beck, Kathleen McKenna, Pat Munafo.

Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen—
Cast for the FUTURE American Way

Preparations galore! With Junior Day a few weeks away there's work a plenty for our Reps. Now choosing a play poses a problem. Seated: Francine Coll, Judy Rohner, Jeanne Little. Standing: Mary Margaret Filliben, Jean Marie Van Horn, Lois Mekenny, Mary Keenan.

Joyous, we tried our new rosters, with new subjects, too;
Uniforms bore the "new look" with emblems of blue.
No problem seemed too difficult this year,
In chapel we found Our Lord so very near.
Our joy overflowed when our Prom came in the Spring;
Rollicking Junior Day followed, and then—class rings!

The wearers of the red started their year with a burst of courage by proving their worth as good sportsmen by winning the inter-class volley-ball and basketball games. A new tradition was introduced by this Sophomore Class; in February they attended a square dance given by the Alumnae as a reward for their wonderful work in the Senior Play Drive. Now they are looking forward to changing their red emblems to blue and beginning a spectacular Junior Year.

Long before September 7, I was curious to know what Notre Dame would be like. Soon enough I was introduced to my roster and I wondered how I would ever get those two languages studied. That answer came only with experience. But that wasn't all I found at Notre Dame. I saw the fun that was contributed by the senior play, the orchestra, Notre Dame Day, the varsity games, and the girls; also the trials which were made of studies, exams, and reports. The fun and the trials have all blended together in perfect harmony, and have made a perfect year.

Right—Top: Kathleen Cassidy and Rosemary Petersilia demonstrate the construction of a circle through three points. Latin, biology, geometry are three great roles to be rehearsed by all Sophomores in the drama of "The American Way."

Top: Maryellen Manley puts a Latin record on the machine as her classmates prepare to pick the magic word.

Bottom—Left: Mary Anne Murray points out the formula for a triangle as Ann Kennedy does the example. Catherine Hess and Elizabeth Wainford wait their turns.

Bottom—Right: Mary Anne Gaynor and Cecilia Di Angelo, during a guidance period, engage in a lively discussion of the value of higher education. Free choice of a career is one of the blessings we enjoy in our American Way of Life.
